Female Friday: Meet smoking hot Philadelphia Eagles cheerleader Marissa

Via cover32 - Eagles | 10 days ago

Welcome to another edition of Female Friday. This is Marissa. via philadelphiaeagles.com Marissa earned the distinction of being named the hottest cheerleader for the Philadelphia Eagles last season by Elite Daily. She also has a degree from Lasalle University and loves dogs. You can learn more about Marissa here on the Eagles website. You may also be interested in:Female Friday...

Five reasons the Eagles won't miss DeSean Jackson

Via cover32 - Eagles | 11 days ago

When wide receiver DeSean Jackson was released by Philadelphia on March 28, many Eagles fans panicked, and understandably so. Jackson was the Eagles leading receiver in 2013 and the most dynamic part of their wide receiver corps. I still think it was a mistake for the team to cut ties with him so quickly and get nothing in return but the more I think about it the more I believe that...

Evan Mathis wants a new contract

Via Pro Football Zone | 10 days ago

Eagles offensive lineman Evan Mathis says he thought about holding out since he wants a new contract, but decided to report to camp. Evan Mathis says he will report to training camp. — Tim McManus (@Tim_McManus) July 24, 2014 Mathis was contemplating holdout. Wants new deal. Ultimately decided showing up and continuing to do right thing was best course. — Tim McManus (@Tim_McManus...

Things we hate: Eagles center Jason Molk says NFL players are underpaid

Via cover32 - Eagles | 11 days ago

Philadelphia Eagles backup center Jason Molk appeared on American Muscle last night on the Discovery Channel. While he was on camera Molk went on a rant about how little NFL players are paid relative to other professional athletes. Here's the clip: I think Molk and the other players hit a bullseye with their comments. NFL players make less on average than athletes in the NBA,...

Philadelphia Eagles: 5 Questions Heading Into Training Camp

Via Standing O Sports | 11 days ago

The Philadelphia Eagles open training camp on July 25th, but I don't think Philadelphia can wait any longer. With the Phillies stinking and the 76ers top picks no where near the court, this city is starving for a winning team. Chip Kelly and Co. have to meet the high expectations of the fan-base by at least making the playoffs. Can the Eagles build on their 10-6 season? The...

Who is the top fantasy football sleeper for the Philadelphia Eagles?

Via cover32 - Eagles | 9 days ago

The Philadelphia Eagles training camp kicked off yesterday, which means that the 2014 NFL season is so close we can almost taste it. That also means that another all-important season is about to begin: fantasy football. I know that some of you may not be fantasy football fanatics, but don't you think it's time that you got in on the craze? Over 30 million people play every year...

Philadelphia Eagles OT Lane Johnson suspended for first four games of season

Via Philly Sports Muse | 11 days ago

Image via Fansided.com. The suspension of Philadelphia Eagles offensive tackle Lane Johnson for violating the NFL's drug policy was announced by the league on Wednesday. The NFL announced that Johnson would be suspended for the first four games of the 2014 regular season. He will return to the Eagles' roster on Monday, September 29 following the team's game a day earlier...

Nick Foles dismisses Philly Mag story

Via Pro Sports Daily | 8 days ago

Nick Foles shuffled to the microphone in flip-flops and a black baseball cap. A crowd of reporters and cameras formed a semicircle around the Eagles quarterback and each time he was asked a question by someone on the outer edges, Foles would turn and face him. It had been over a month since Foles last publicly spoke. In the intervening time, as the Phillies sank into nonrelevancy...

Philadelphia Eagles 2014 Training Camp Preview: Secondary and Specialists

Via Sons of the Spectrum | 10 days ago

The Philadelphia Eagles secondary was Chip Kelly's biggest challenge when he took over. He inherited a soft group who couldn't tackle or cover in the red zone. He made nearly complete overhaul and brought in some fresh talent that liked to get physical. The results weren't much better as the Eagles still finished near the [...] The post Philadelphia Eagles 2014 Training Camp...

Evan Mathis still reports to camp despite wanting a new deal

Via Total Sports Live | 11 days ago

When a new NFL season starts, players hold out for new contracts as they feel like they have outplayed them. In the case of Philadelphia Eagles offensive guard Evan Mathis he has outplayed his contract but will not hold out. According to Tim McManus of Birds 24/7, he says that Mathis will report to training camp and was considering a holdout but ultimately decided against it. Mathis...

Philadelphia Eagles have one guy named to projected 2014 All-NFL team

Via cover32 - Eagles | 9 days ago

The offseason is officially complete, as training camps across the league started this week. Thus, it's a good time to assess what each team has on their roster; things are pretty much set, especially in terms of starting lineups. During a four-week period this summer, the editors at cover32 determined the All-Division team for each of the NFL's eight divisions. Today, it's the...

Philadelphia Eagles 2014 Training Camp Preview: Defensive Line

Via Sons of the Spectrum | 11 days ago

When it comes to the Eagles defense everyone wants to talk about how key it is to get improved play from the secondary or the linebackers, but really this defense will take that next step only if the defensive line improves. They have the most talent on this defense, they have the most depth and [...] The post Philadelphia Eagles 2014 Training Camp Preview: Defensive Line appeared...

Eagles Training Camp Wish: No Significant Injuries Please!

Via Eagles Addict | 9 days ago

AP Photo/Rich Schultz The 2014 Philadelphia Eagles season truly begins today as players report for Training Camp. Yes, football is back baby! I'm looking forward to the intense position battles and see how the team comes together. However, looming in the background of all the excitement of getting back to football is the one thing I dread most during camp and preseason... Injuries...

Philadelphia Eagles look to upgrade special teams in 2014

Via cover32 - Eagles | 10 days ago

In 2014 the Philadelphia Eagles kickoff and punt return game will see new faces, while the punt and kickoff coverage unit will see plenty of competition with the addition of new players in the offseason. One of the positions that will see pressure coming into training camp will be at kicker. Alex Henery has been with the team since 2011 but his stats have been going down since his...

Jeremy Maclin shuts down social media for training camp

Via cover32 - Eagles | 10 days ago

When you're a professional athlete distractions from your work can be endless. With millions of dollars at your disposal and legions of admirers everywhere you go, it can be very easy to lose your edge. Rumor has it that the Denver Broncos were out partying hard in New York during Super bowl week. That didn't work out so well for them. One thing that you can do to tune it all...
